

EMPLOYMENT RESOURCES:

1. Conference of State Bank Supervisors. This agency has employment opportunities at its' Washington, DC headquarters. Use this link. Their website also contains links to all the state bank regulators. Many state financial and examiner job opportunities can be found at this link.
2. Other job sites. Job sites such as Indeed.com, TheLadders.com, USAJobs.gov, Monster.com, and CareerBuilder.com often refresh their listings daily.
3. Look into working for a state or local government. Civic Match by Work for America is a nonpartisan program connecting federal workers and campaign staff with potential jobs in state and local governments.
4. Use the AFDICA job board. (a future feature to be added in March 2025).
5. Research articles on looking for a new job. Read articles from experts on navigating the job market such as this one. These may help you find a new job or gig work to hold you over until you can land permanent work.
6. The Arlington County Library. For those impacted by federal workforce actions, the librarians have assembled an online guide to services and programs that features career development resources, library and Arlington County programs and mental health support.
7. The Loudoun (County) Workforce Resource Center
<https://www.loudoun.gov/1592/Workforce-Resource-Center>
8. SF-50 - Determining your service and appointment type. USA Jobs
9. CliftonLarsonAllen (CLA) is a professional services and accounting firm that offers audit, tax, consulting, and other financial services. An officer of the firm has contacted a member of the AFDICA board of directors to inform her that they are hiring for many positions around the country. Their jobs board is located here.
10. A guide to job search websites. Below is a summary of some of the most popular job search sites per ChatGPT. Each is known for offering various features to help job seekers:
 1. LinkedIn
 - Best for: Networking, professional connections, and job hunting.
 - Features: LinkedIn allows users to connect with professionals, follow companies, and see job recommendations based on profile information. It's great for networking and discovering job opportunities in various fields.
 2. Indeed
 - Best for: Comprehensive job listings across many industries.

- Features: One of the largest job search engines, Indeed aggregates job postings from company websites, staffing agencies, and job boards. It offers a simple interface, reviews, salary information, and company insights.

3. Glassdoor

- Best for: Company reviews, salary insights, and job listings.
- Features: Glassdoor is unique for its user-submitted reviews, salary data, and interview experiences, making it useful for researching companies before applying. It also offers job postings from various industries.

4. Monster

- Best for: Job search with a focus on career advice and resources.
- Features: Monster offers job listings along with career tools, such as resume writing, interview tips, and salary information. It's a good site for people looking for a comprehensive career support platform.

5. ZipRecruiter

- Best for: Easy job matching.
- Features: ZipRecruiter matches your resume to available jobs and sends alerts when a good fit is found. It's a great platform for both job seekers and employers, offering an intuitive and quick job application process.

6. SimplyHired

- Best for: Searching job opportunities from multiple sites.
- Features: SimplyHired aggregates job listings from various websites and offers salary estimates, company reviews, and job search filters, including part-time and remote opportunities.

7. CareerBuilder

- Best for: Job seekers looking for a broad range of opportunities.
- Features: CareerBuilder offers job search tools, resume assistance, and career resources, along with an easy-to-use search interface. It's a solid option for those exploring many different industries.

8. FlexJobs

- Best for: Remote, part-time, and flexible jobs.

- Features: Specializes in remote, flexible, and telecommuting job opportunities. FlexJobs screens its listings for legitimacy, providing a curated experience for those interested in flexible work arrangements.

Return to AFDICA Homepage